B Y P U SOCIAL

The Baptist Young People's Society of the Marble Hill Baptist church gave a lawn social at the church Thursday night. A good crowd was present and the social was a success. There have been a number of these socials this summer and all have been well patronized. The societies appreciate this generosity on the part of the public.

W. O. Talley of Grand Chais, Ill., passed through Marble Hill Monday on his return from visit who lives in the western part of this county near Grassy post office. While in town he called at the Press office and subscribed to the Press.

WHY LONG IS GAINING

Some of our readers wonder why the News has had so little to say about the contest for the senatorial nomination between Brock Long and James A. Reed. The News is for Long and against Reed, and some friends of the former do not understand why the many vulnerable points of Senator Reed are not attacked regularly and vigorously.

It strikes us that it is not necessary for the friends of Long to make any attack on Senator Jas. Reed. As we have analyzed the campaign, it appears to us Senator Reed is his own worst opponent. He is filling his speeches with so much sarcasm and bitterness that he is driving Democrats away from him and stirring up friends of Long to a more vigorous support of their candidate. It seems to us that Senator Reed realizes that sentiment in the party has turned against him and he is taking the opportunity during the campaign to pay his respects to Democrats against whom he has a bitter feeling for their opposition to him. The things he is saying in every speech of both leaders and individual members of the party are creating wounds that he must know cannot heal. If Senator Reed had hopes of being nominated certainly political judgement would teach him that he would not be able to obtain support of Democrats whom he abuses after the election.
